WE NOMINATE

Three eminent and missing Princetonians — Jane Shaw (Mrs. John E.) Bayles, Sarah Houston Scott (Mrs. William B.) Foulk and Mary Elizabeth Hennou — who this week, as literally scores of their fellow townsmen pause to share the pleasure of paying their respects, together complete some 108 years of service to Princeton University and American education. In what one educational analyst calls "a last stronghold of the American male," it is a valid measure of this trio's achievements to have a University spokesman recall: "I am sure we had our problems before they arrived in the 1920's, but I still don't see how we are going to navigate the rapids created by their retirements."

Each of the three, sliding gracefully past the statutory retirement age of 65, carries with her memories of the decades which have changed Princeton, and the world it helps sustain, more than any equivalent period in this community's recorded history. The Princeton 1920's of their post-school and college years, and even the post-Depression 1930's, when Princeton was one of the last communities along the Atlantic Seaboard to feel the jolts of "The Big Bust," can be contrasted with the past quarter-century and the Princeton Area's continuing development as one of the nation's dynamic centers of education and research.

It was in 1929 that Mrs. Bayles, whose husband a year ago completed an equally impressive tour of duty within the University's Department of Grounds and Buildings, entered the University's employ. After three years in the Public Information Office, and the year 1932-33 as secretary to Acting President Edward Duffield, the link between the administrations of the late John Grier Hibben and Harold Willis Dodds, she — in the words of a contemporary — "took charge of the Office of the Dean of the Faculty," effectively working with the late Robert K. Root and, since 1946, with J. Douglas Brown, whom her aunt taught in the second grade in the near-by Somerville schools.

Ever since 1922, the spring President Warren G. Harding dedicated Princeton Battle Monument, Mrs. Foulk, the wife of the University's retired Director of Purchases, has been an integral part of the Office of the Dean of the Graduate School. Friend and counselor of Princeton graduate alumni in all parts of the world, and one of Princeton's most knowledgeable and understanding sports enthusiasts, this self-described "Army brat" is the daughter of General Hugh Lenox Scott, Army Chief of Staff under Woodrow Wilson from 1914 to 1917, Acting Secretary of War shortly before World War I, and first commandant of Fort Dix, N. J.

Miss Hennou, a third-generation Princetonian and a member of a family long identified with public service within the Borough of Princeton, probably knows more about the "do's and don'ts" of Princeton Alumni Reunions than any Class Reunion Chairman. For the past 12 years, as secretary for the Alumni Council, she has guided dozens of Alumni Committees through logistical mazes — sustaining an amazing volume of detailed correspondence and capitalizing upon experience she had previously gained as a secretary in the Department of Economics and as a concerned administrator of the War Service Bureau.

For endowing others with their rare sense of purpose and enthusiasm; for compiling records of service which shall long be remembered by those with whom they have been associated; for their devotion to the concept of what one terms "this unified Princeton"; they are our nominees as

MERGER IS FAVORED

In Borough, Township. "The majority of Princeton community residents feel that both the Borough and the Township would benefit equally from the merger of the two school districts."

This is the result of a survey conducted by Opinion Research Corporation and Gallup & Robinson and released this week by the Friends of Public Education in Princeton. The tally:

In the Borough:
62% in favor
21% against
17% undecided

In the Township:
84% in favor
4% against
12% undecided

"Yes" votes on merger came from every segment of the two communities and crossed all lines of education, income, religion, race, length of residence. There is no one particular social or economic group in either Borough or Township that is opposed to merger.

The survey is the result of personal interviews with 676 Princeton residents. These 676 represented everyone over the age of 21 in both Borough and Township.

Better Schools. "The large majority favoring the merger do so primarily because they think it will mean better schools," the survey report states. "The greatest concern of those opposing the merger is a possible increase in school taxes, although the 'Blue Book' issued by the Joint Committee of the two School Boards says that no significant increase would result."

The Friends of Princeton point out, in their report, that taxes under a merged system would be less than under two completely separate systems with two high schools.

Residents who participated in the survey were asked whether they thought the Township should be its own high school if the merger did not pass.

In the Township, 66% said they believed the Township would indeed build its own high school; 9% thought it was only a threat and 25% had no opinion. In the Borough, 20% of those interviewed said they thought the Township was bluffing, but 46% said they believed the Township would actually build the school and 34% were undecided.

In addition, 48% of Township residents and 41% of Borough residents, told interviewers that the Township should build its own high school. These figures compare with the 19% of Township residents and 21% of the Borough residents who don't think the Township should go ahead with its own high school plant.

Interest is high. Keen interest in the school reorganization proposal was evident in the course of the survey, and more than eight people out of ten expressed at least "moderate" interest. Seven out of ten told interviewers that they expect to vote in the October 7 referendum. This is a much larger proportion of voters than most school elections produce.

Interest is at its height, obviously, in families with children in the public schools.

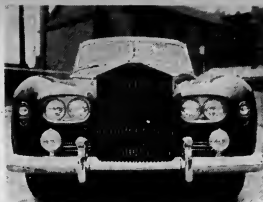

"We found a much greater understanding of the issues in this survey than we usually do in a typical school issue," commented Thomas W. Benham, vice-president of ORC who led the survey team. "We're used to 70-80% who don't know any-

BE THERE FOR BREAKFAST ON TUESDAY: This total wreck was once an automobile which once held three people driving along a road near here too fast. It turned over, caught fire, and no one knows why they weren't killed. Across the U.S. this holiday weekend, more Americans will die in automobile accidents than have lost their lives in the four years of American involvement in Viet Nam. Be careful... be there for breakfast on Tuesday.

TOPICS Of The Town

WATER?
Leave Hydrants Alone. Vandals with an immature sense of humor and no sense at all about the hazards of fire, turned on two hydrants full force late Sunday night.

All three caps were removed from a hydrant on Herrington Road and from another on Terhune Road, Princeton Water Company officials said. The one on Herrington Road drained nearby water lines, and one house was without water until the hydrant caps were replaced.

The hydrants, of course, are there for the fire companies to use in the event of fire. Water comes out of them at terrific, fire-hose pressure and as much as 1,000 gallons a minute can be lost if a hydrant is spewing water out with all caps removed.

"We're O.K." So far as a water shortage is concerned, the Princeton Water Company is "in good shape," a company spokesman said, but because of drought situations elsewhere and lack of rain here, the company is not happy about vandals and hydrants.

Tuesday and Wednesday, June 22 and 23, were peak days for water usage in Princeton because of the heat, and more than five million gallons a day were used on these days. Nobody ran out of water, and the company is now geared to handle these capacity days. There are no present plans for restrictions.

On Wednesday, July 7, the governors of New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Delaware will meet to discuss the water crisis and some statewide restrictions may be imposed on New Jersey as a result of that meeting. All four states draw water from the Delaware River, and so does Princeton, indirectly, because some of its water comes from the Delaware-Baritan canal.

YOUNG WOMAN KILLED
In Carter Road Crash. A 21-year-old Flemington woman was killed Saturday at 5:40 p.m. when the car in which she was a passenger went out of control on a curve on Route 509 (Carter Road) and struck a tree.

Miss Lucy M. Cecinello was pronounced dead on arrival at Princeton Hospital. The driver, Thomas Willis, 21, 102 W. Broad Street, Hopewell, was admitted to Princeton Hospital with a broken leg. His condition was described Tuesday by Hospital officials as satisfactory. Both were transported to the hospital by the Hopewell Rescue Squad.

State Police from Hopewell Barracks said Mr. Willis' convertible skidded 143 feet when it attempted to round a curve near the intersection of the Rocky Hill Road. They said he will be charged with mandatory death by auto. Additional charges are pending. Both he and Miss Cecinello had been attending an outing at Educational Testing Service on Carter Road.

MERCER BRIDGE HIT
By Convertible. Robert L. Sommers, 28, 473 Princeton Avenue, Trenton, received cuts and bruises when his convertible rammed the side of the Mercer Road Bridge at 3:18 Sunday morning.

He and a passenger, Miss Paula L. Love of Leigh Avenue, were taken to Princeton Hospital for treatment by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad. Miss Love was x-rayed for a possible knee injury.

Mr. Sommers told Township Police he was travelling toward Princeton and as he approached the bridge he braked to make the sharp turn. His car went into a skid and struck the side wall of the bridge, damaging its entire front end and left side. Police ticketed him for careless driving.

Mustang Rumble. When a vase of flowers on the front seat tipped over, spilling water, it diverted the attention of Mrs. Whitney Oates, 62, 34 Edgemoor Street, who at the time, was in the process of turning her car from Edgemoor onto Stockton Street. The time was 11:25 Thursday morning.

As a result, Mrs. Oates' 1965 Mustang made a complete turn, jumped the curb and penetrated a wire fence before coming to a rest against the front porch of the home of Mrs. Porter N. Lea, 92 Stockton. The porch was considerably damaged, police said. Some shrubbery and portions of a fence on the Lea property

Round-Up

WHO'S AFRAID? Few two-legged creatures move faster in the summer's heat and humidity, the four-legged variety tend to drag a bit, and the birds seem to fly more slowly when the thermometer tops 90. The exception, of course, is usually motivated by the hot air or not, is the clock in Nassau Hall.

For weeks during the spring, those who had their radios on the time line mounted on a station were intrigued with the fact that the first tone from the static bell invariably blended right in with the time signal. Now, Nassau Hall's bell has varied almost despite the open-air atmosphere, and is almost a full 60 seconds fast.

NERVOUS CUSTOMER: A man who cashed a $200 fraudulent check at one Princeton bank last month would hardly be expected to have the nerve to try to talk the other inside of a 50-cent store, but that's just what he did.

Giving the name of Jack Cohen, the cashier checked drawn on a Trenton bank and signed by a Dr. Paul Cohen, at Princeton Bank and Trust Company on May 18 proved to be worthless and the man received due publicity, but either the "paper-hanger" as he is known in police parlance, failed to notice his name or else his mouth was watering so hard he didn't care.

This time, he tried the Nassau Street branch of the First National, and this time he was after $250. However, the teller questioned the check and the nerve he had unfaithfully shown until that moment quickly ebbed. Grabbing the check, he muttered that he had the "wrong branch bank" and hastily departed.

Police report that when Jack Cohen stands up he not only measures 5-8 but turns out to be the real Harvey Markham. Not only is Jack Cohen his favorite name, but he likes to pose as a doctor and some times takes the name of a local physician. A detective agency on his trail estimates that in the past decade his take from worthless checks he ran into thousands of dollars.

Other than his height, he's about 35 to 37 years of age, 130 to 140 pounds, black hair, hazel eyes. Fair complexion.

WHERE'D IT GO? Along with the $200 check, Borough Administrator Robert F. Mooney, a former fire chief, reports that the two men who were asking for contributions to "The Firemen's Fund" at last week's annual convention of Princeton's three companies were unknown to any Borough official.

Claiming they were veterans and soldiers, the pair paid their trade in somewhat mysterious fashion. No permit had been issued for such action at the health hall, and Mr. Mooney reports for the record that it never has cool anything in addition to contributions, to see the parade and inspection, and never will.

Zooming by!

Independence Day, so the Founding Fathers taught us, is time for declaring oneself free in the cause of heat and humidity — but just like getting rid of the peak of heat, it takes more than wishful thinking.

A slight breeze in those readings in the '90s is due the Man said, but he wasn't too optimistic about it being a comfortable weekend. As for rain, it's in the dictionary and out west — not much nearer.

ANOTHER DRY MONTH: June provided less than 50% of normal rainfall, increasing the seriousness of the drought. It has not been several months since as much as an inch has fallen in a 24-hour period.

Other areas in the east are in far worse straits than Princeton area, and a reassessment report from the Princeton Water Co. appears in Times. It says that the water conservation of restrictions may be necessary in the water shortage at the state level.

MORE VANDALISM: If it can't sell as often as vandals damage an automobile around here, the drought would have since have ended. That night-time activity is sparser but a week never passes without some form of entry on the police docket.

Dudley H. Morris, 23, Armistead Road, reported a side-view mirror and antenna stripped off his car Saturday night, which was parked in his driveway. Mrs. Wilma Davis, 48 Nassau Street, had a mirror and side blades while her car was in the lot at John and Hallow Streets.

THIS WAY OUT: The first incidence of a foreign diplomatic car being ordered off the New Jersey Turnpike for excessive speed occurred last week just north of the Hightstown Interchange.

Physician, doing a limousine driver, clocked it at 83 miles an hour in the 60-mile zone. State Police told the driver, X-Doris Dore, chauffeur for the Senegalese Embassy in Washington, that he was endangering the lives of others and might no longer use the Turnpike. His passenger was reportedly the ambassador's wife but she refused to identify herself.

The limousine was then escorted to Exit 8 and told to turn on its southbound course to the nation's capital along traffic on the old Route 130 in New York. The Daily News, one advocating a crackdown on diplomatic immunity, charged that the DPL on its fence of foreign cars can't be Diplomatic. Please leave.

were also damaged Mrs. Oates was charged with careless driving by Sgt. James Koughner of the Borough Police. She escaped injury.

Monday at 1:20 p.m. Michael Schmin, 21, 140 Random Road, was taken to Princeton Hospital by an ambulance, treated for abrasions of his left hand arm and leg and released. A few moments earlier, driving a motorcycle, he had been knocked to the pavement, following a collision with a car at the intersection of Prospect and Harrison.

The driver of the car, Mrs. Margaret A. Young, 43, 130 Longview Drive, driving on Prospect, told police she had stopped for the "stop" sign at the foot of Harrison Street before entering the intersection. As she did so, she hit the rear section of the motorcycle of Mr. Schmin who was traveling south on Harrison. Mrs. Young was charged with a stop sign violation.

STATE POLICE READY

For Long Holiday Weekend.
In preparation for the long Fourth of July weekend, Colonel D. B. Kelly, state police superintendent, has issued orders to have all available personnel assigned to traffic patrol duty. The stepped-up enforcement program will continue throughout the holiday period with special emphasis on the critical hours between 5 p.m. and 3 a.m. when most fatal accidents occur.

The New Highway Traffic Patrol Bureau comprises the spearhead of an all-out attack on the mounting death toll. Traffic deaths in New Jersey are up 5 1/2% over last year at this time, and 1964 set a record for fatal accidents. The bureau, composed of traffic specialists assigned to task force, radar, drunkometer and truck units, will concentrate on known trouble spots throughout the state.

Colonel Kelly emphasized the need to be mentally and physically alert. The 446 fatal accidents so far this year, 37.4% involving one car and 29.4% involving pedestrians, point to driver and pedestrian inattentiveness as the most prevalent cause of accidents.

It is also noted that the alcohol factor is present in over 30% of all fatal accidents. Information on traffic conditions can also help to cut down fatalities. All radio stations will cooperate in broadcasting periodic bulletins as reported by state police helicopter patrols in an effort to keep the motorist advised of traffic hazards.

has filed suit in U. S. District Court against the Trenton and Mercer County Board of Realtors for alleged discriminatory practices.

The suit, filed in Mrs. Martin's behalf by an attorney for the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, charges the board with violation of the federal anti-trust laws and the state "common law" provisions against restraint of trade. The Board allegedly refused to accept Negro real estate brokers as members on the basis of race, delineated white neighborhoods, refused to sell to Negroes in these areas, and refused to allow Negro agents to broker for slow listed dwellings in the areas.

Mrs. Martin also contends that she is barred from the trademark "realtor" and that she is deprived of membership in all real estate societies and the benefits this offers. She stated that she met all requirements for membership set down by the board, yet has been refused to join since 1954.

$200 worth of damage.
In the Mercer County area, the Lutheran Church of the Messiah, Nassau Street, came a report of $65 in cash and a check for $24 taken from a steel cabinet in the church basement. It appeared as if a pair of seissors had been used to enter the cabinet, police said.

The Methodist Church here reported two small coin boxes
next to the literature racks were emptied but that they probably yielded very little.
They never contained more than a small amount of change from one week to the next,"
said a member of the church.
Neither box was locked.

Ironically, police had Boyle in their custody on Friday but let him go Friday. University Campus police called Borough police to report they had found a man sleeping in the Pyne Administration Building.
Borough police, however, said they had no reason to hold the man — later identified as Boyle — and released him.

Detective Robert McAvonia conducted the investigation for the Borough. When the Highstown police called, Ptl. Thomas Proctor said he recalled seeing a man answering that description on Friday in the Washington Road area. This prompted the Borough police to request the Highstown po-

THREE ARE FINED
Following Fight at Tavern
Of seven Princeton residents charged with taking part in a fight at the King's Inn in South Brunswick Township
last month, three were fined three, three were found not guilty and charges against the other were dismissed.
A fine of $100 and $10 court costs were imposed on Colin Leitch, 18, of 106 Broadwood
Ave. He received a six-month suspended sentence in the Mercer County Workhouse but in expected appeal both the fine and the sentence.

Magistrate Adele Watson
also imposed fines of $50 and $10 court charges each on Daniel P. Corvino, 131 Jefferson Road, and Donald R. Zuber, 70 Union Street. All three of the defendants pleaded not guilty.
Found not guilty, following the hearing last week, were Robert O. Smyth Jr., 20 Pine Street; Charles J. Smyth, 23
Nassau Street; and Kevin Delaney, 56 Jefferson Road.
Charges against Robert J.
James, 2 Evelyn Place, were dismissed while two juveniles,
also involved on the occasion,
are awaiting hearings before officials charged to violations of the law by those under 18.

In the fight, Norman Steward, a 22-year old Princeton Theological Seminary student, was reportedly struck with a lug wrench by an unidentified man, Trenton, and a concussion and lacerations for which he was admitted to Princeton Hospital. Philip Parment, 23, 40 Dogwood Lane, and William A. Gronlund, 21-year old Princeton University student, received minor injuries.

State Police at first reported that all those taken into custody as a result of the fight had been drinking but have now amended the statement to this effect.
"There had been drinking—
all of those in the fight did not go into the bar, but some did, and those who asked for liquor were refused. They were asked to leave, and did not. We cannot single out who had any who had not been drinking."

CHURCHES ENTERED
By "Four Box" Robber. A man arrested by Highstown police Sunday for robbing two churches there has admitted entering three Princeton churches on Friday.
Borough Police identified him as Arthur Boyle, 42, of Freehold. He is currently in Mercer County Jail and when Highstown police are finished with him, Borough Chief Peter J. McCrohan said he will be turned over to his department where he will be charged with breaking and entering.

Police said the defendant tried, unsuccessfully, to pry open two poor boxes located inside the front doors of St. St.
Paul's Church on Nassau Street with a pair of bolt cutters. However, in his abortive attempt to enter the boxes which are set flush in the walls, police said he did about

Municipal Pool by 1966?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Princeton Association for Human Rights would like to congratulate Recreation Director Donald Barr and the Joint Recreation Commission on its summer swimming program for children between 8 and 16.

As we found in 1964, when operating PAHR's summer program, there is a great need for public swimming facilities in Princeton. The present program, like PAHR's, is a stop-gap to fill that need in the absence of a municipal pool.

We assume that this is the last long hot summer in which such temporary programs will be needed, and that at this time next year we can all be swimming in Princeton's municipal pool.

Irving L. Newlin
 President, PAHR

Credit Where It's Due.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In your description of the Princeton High School Senior Faculty Dance and the Party after, you erroneously gave sole credit for the party to the PTA. Actually, it was a group of hardworking parents of seniors who did all the planning and staging of this highly successful midnight venture.

The PTA has been happy and proud to give support to this project but the credit is due to the co-chairmen, the Northrop and the Heibergers and their committee: Mr. and Mrs. Aiken, Bleacher, Deming, and Van Riper, and the 20 couples who worked hard to make the affair such a success. Donations were received from more than 50 families, other PTAs and service organizations, and local merchants were very generous in contributing door prizes. All this adds up to one of the gayest events of the year and the seniors and their parents should be complimented.

Edith L. Levere
 President, PHS PTA

Editor's Note: The information given TOWN TOPICS about the party listed the PTA as the sponsor. Thanks to Mrs. Levere for providing the foregoing amplification.

Thoughts of Thorn Lord.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The news of Thorn Lord's tragic death has only just reached me out in California, but I must, nevertheless, add my own small contribution to the tributes which many others have by now made.

For almost a decade I have worked closely with Thorn Lord's as a volunteer in political affairs and the view of him I had was probably different from the view held of him by either elected officials or Democratic Party employees.

Party chairmen generally, of INTERNATIONAL YACHT BASIN: Sailing on a warm summer day is a perfect pastime, even if your boat is small and you are only six. The setting is the reflecting pool in front of the Woodrow Wilson School for International Studies, more familiarly known as the Yamasaki building, after its architect. The sailor is Elizabeth Coan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Coan. (Alan Richards Photo) either party at county or state level in any state have a primary responsibility to win elections. Thorn Lord took that responsibility very seriously, worked at it day and night year after year — and with great success. But his mind and heart and conscience went far beyond this and thus he was a most unique County and State Chairman.

Always he was concerned with more than a candidate's vote-getting ability. Thorn Lord was concerned with the intellectual capacity and integrity of candidates, he was concerned with what candidates stood for on important issues of the day. More than that even, he was determined that "issues" be made of present and foreseeable problems in Mercer County and New Jersey when some, for reasons of political expediency, wanted to ignore them or to sweep them under the rug.

Thus it was typical of his character that for the past several years Thorn Lord has been insisting that candidates for election in New Jersey must espouse a broadly-based tax. He made enemies of some County chairmen in this stand. He continued, however, to use all his persuasive powers to convince his associates of the necessity for facing this unpopular problem honestly and openly. He knew that only a down-hill future faces the State without a modern source of revenue to meet modern demands for State services.

It was typical too that about 10 years ago he gathered together a small group of university professors, lawyers and young Party officials to form a study group looking into New Jersey's future in matters of taxation, civil rights, mass transportation, highways and traffic, public education, economic growth, the administration of justice, and so on. True, a good deal of the impetus in this group was for the well-being of the Democratic Party, but Thorn Lord insisted that problems be studied in the broadest context of "What are New Jersey's needs."

In many of these undertakings, as well as in local political affairs, I was privileged to work closely with this man honored by his trust, warmed by his friendship, and a County Democrat's all recognize our loss; citizens all across New Jersey will be less aware of their loss but that loss is real.

Of Thorn Lord it can be truly said as it can of few men: "He was a good and useful citizen" and someone I think he would want me to add: "He was a man of deep faith."

SCIENCE

In Princeton

ROCKET SHOT A SUCCESS
By Princeton Scientists
After two frustrating failures, Princeton University scientists using rocket-borne instruments have obtained the first clear spectrograms of ultraviolet light from the stars. The group acquired spectra with a fineness of detail never before achieved with starlight. The success of the 113-mile-high rocket flight was in serious doubt for two weeks, after the parachute system had failed and the instruments were badly smashed. Results were achieved only after a two-week delay in development of the film, which it had feared was hopelessly fogged.

The scientists are studying the spectrograms for information on the atmospheres of the stars and the nature of interstellar matter, and will present their findings at a scientific meeting later in the year. Besides light in the ultraviolet, the rocket launchings are providing valuable information and experience for the operation of the Princeton satellite.

The rocket, a liquid-fuel missile, 15 inches in diameter and 26 feet long, was fired from the White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico, and directed toward Delta Scorpii, a hot star in the constellation of the Scorpion that emits most of its radiating in the ultraviolet. Two wide-angle cameras (fitted with diffraction gratings) to disperse light into spectra were equipped to take six time exposures each on circular pieces of film about the size of a penny.

Dr. Donald C. Morton, head of the University's rocket program, in describing the launching commented that from the beginning of the flight successful, but "at daylight we set out by helicopter to look for the payload, and we had trouble because we couldn't spot the parachute. Finally we found the instrument, terribly smashed. The parachute had deployed too early and the sudden force on the parachute as it filled with air ripped all the shroud lines, leaving the payload to fall freely."

Thus the wreckage was exposed to sunlight for about an hour and the first batch of film to be developed came out fogged. Dr. Morton brought the rest back to Princeton to see if special developing techniques could be used to bring out an image. "It was so disconcerting," he said, "that I just let the film sit in a refrigerator for two weeks, but when I finally got around to the remaining exposures I tried developing some of them for half the usual time, and much to my surprise on one of these the spectra of two stars were faintly visible."

Two earlier attempts have ended in failure, once when strong winds blew the rocket off course, and the other because of a failure in the pointing system. The project is one of three at Princeton designed to lift astronomical instruments into the earth's atmosphere, which lies between ultraviolet light and otherwise visible light from the sun.

In one, significant results have already been achieved by using a giant balloon to lift a 36-inch telescope to an altitude of 10 miles. With the other, Scientists hope to put a 32-inch telescope into orbit 500 miles above the earth some time in 1968. Dr. Lyman Spitzer Jr., chairman of the department of astrophysical sciences, is overall director of the University's space program, which is supported by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

NEW TEACHERS NAMED
For Borough Schools. The Borough Board of Education has approved the appointment of William R. Trego, 34, as vocal music head and director of the music faculty at the University of Michigan.

Mr. Trego, a native of Pennsylvania, has been serving as director of the fine arts program at El Dorado, Ark. He is a graduate of Westminster Choir College, married and the father of a six-year-old child. Also appointed at last week's meeting was Mr. W. White for Witherspoon School social studies, Miss Elizabeth M. Norman for high school social studies, and Mrs. Nancy V. Arcamone, high school home economics. The resignations of two PHS teachers, B. STONE HOUSE... 5 1/2 WOODED ACRES... GARAGE APARTMENT. These assets alone would make this Northwood Township property quite unique, unusual and appealing decorative touches make it more so. The brick-floored entrance hall is particularly intriguing, warmed by a handsome, black iron-hooded fireplace and cooled by a glass-walled painting area. Living room also with fireplace; dining room and brick-floored TV den with air heated cathedral ceilings. The kitchen has a combined artist gourmet air, contributed partly by the use of imported French tile.

There are three bedrooms (the master with interesting carved wood doors) and two baths downstairs, two partly finished rooms and roughed-in bath up. AM will be finished for the full price; as is, there's bargaining to be done. (Incidental information) there are friendly neighbors with a cool pool! Exclusively ours at $73,500

"THINGS ARE TOUGH ENOUGH NOW," says John Cosgrove (right) in opposing any civilian review board to judge police actions. In disagreeing, John Breelsa says he sees "no harm in checking on the police once in awhile." (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What is your opinion of the idea of a civilian review board to judge the action of police?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

John Cosgrove, Trenton driver for Princeton Fuel Oil Co. Personally, I don't think it's a good idea. I think the wrong people would get on the board. They would put as much pressure on the police that they wouldn't do their job right. Things are tough enough now, especially when someone pulls a knife on you and you shoot him and then you get suspended — like that cop in Newark. There'd be no charges of police brutality brought before the board that the cops would be afraid to do their job.

John Breelsa, Trenton, carpenter: I think it's a good idea. I see no harm in checking on the police once in awhile. They're no better than anybody else.

David Levenson, 35 Westcott Road, graduate student, University of California: It depends on the amount of power it would have, whether it would be just an advisory board or whether it would have the power to suspend police officers. If it just brings public opinion to bear on police action, I think a civilian review board would be a good thing. If it has disciplinary powers, then I think it would do more harm than good. I feel the police have enough to worry about—they shouldn't have to be responsible to more than one authority.

Arnold Goldstein, Manhattan, writer - editor: I don't think I'd be in favor of a complete civilian review board. In terms of any harassment, I think the department should be able to clean its own house. They shouldn't have to be afraid of outside pressure. You would not get involved with all kinds of different pressure groups. I don't think there can be impartiality on a civilian review board—everyone has some vested interest. The composition of the board would create trouble — allowing for minority groups, determining who should sit on the board. I don't think impartiality can be gained by having one from this group and another from another group.

Miss Anne MacNeil, Cherry Valley Road, college student: I think there are a good many advantages and disadvantages. It's very easy to see how the police would dislike it. I know if I were a policeman I would dislike it, because I would feel someone else was taking over what was, basically, our own affair. The primary advantage of a civilian review board is that it could be objective over charges of police brutality.

Frank Tichau, Highland Park, trains Peace Corps applicants at Princeton University: I think it's a good idea. One gets the impression that a lot goes on in the police department that the public never knows about.

I have a feeling with a civilian review board there might be a greater willingness on the part of those who feel they have received unfair treatment from the police to register complaints. They would be encouraged to believe their complaints would be heard with sympathy and not ignored.

Dr. A. R. Robinson, 263 Hawthorne Avenue, podiatrist: I think in selected cases I can see the advantage — provided it's a carefully selected board. Only the most eminently qualified persons should be chosen. However, I think we should have enough confidence in our police, per se, that we can feel with complete assurance that each man, be he adequately trained, be he adequately judged, as I say, there may be questions that arise that would necessitate some judging board and I feel a good civilian review board would stand in good stead or, say, a jury which is the only alternative. But I believe any review board should be used only in isolated cases, not as a general practice.

Richard Mazell, 9 Lytle Street, postal clerk: I don't think much of it. I look at it this way: I don't think any outside group immediately connected with the police could know enough about police affairs to make wise decisions. There would be a lot of outside groups on the board — pressure groups like CORE — and I feel they would just be hurting the police rather than helping them. I figure the police can take care of their own problems.

William Wakefield, 246 Irving Street, PHS officer: To tell the truth, I don't think they ought to have it. I think a civilian review board would be prejudiced against the police because people at one time or another have reason not to like them — they are caught speeding, parking violations, etc. The fact that they're civilians and the police are police makes a difference. They're naturally antagonistic.

Legare Cawley, Lawrenceville, teacher: I would say that I hope we could do without such a thing. I think public opinion is far more effective, ideally, in controlling police actions. I feel a review board would just bring out more complications.

Mrs. Elizabeth Santowasso, 255 Nassau Street, teacher: I'm against it. It seems to me it's had enough now with bribery on the police force — it might work two ways with a civilian control board. You've got to be able to put your faith in the police management and its commissioners to control their own department. Otherwise it seems to be senseless.

Z. Philip Ambrose, Burlington, Vt., teacher at University of Vermont: I've opposed it. I believe we already have the proper vehicles for controlling the police. I feel it might be some sort of opportunity for unfair pressure by certain men that the public never knows about.

News Of The THEATRES

THE GARDEN
In Harm's Way (now through Tuesday) doesn't quite measure up to either of the two previous war films, "Von Ryan's Express" or "The Train," see here, but it manages to provide a fair amount of excitement.

The subject is somewhat shopporn, an account of the Pacific's grander scale. Otto Preminger directs such established stars as John Wayne, Kirk Douglas, Patricia Neal and Henry Fonda, on this perilous escape aboard U.S. Navy ships.

Various sub-plots thread through the main line give the naval gals a chance to cool off between battles. Cool these out and picture becomes an excellent documentary.

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE
Von Ryan's Express (now playing) is an excellent production of David Westheimer's best-seller. It is a World War II story of the hair-raising adventures of a group of Allied prisoners of - war who engineer a mass escape from the Nazis by train.

Frank Sinatra once again proves himself as an actor in (the role of a USAF colonel) who masterminds the escape attempt. Taylor Howard, a Fidler is very, very good in his second in command, play the part of a hard-bitten British major. Suspense at times reaches almost unbearable proportions as the Allied forces season of the Great Lakes Shakespeare Festival last Friday.

It was the production seen last spring in McClellan with some major cast changes. Mr. Fidler, for example, had played Macduff on the McClellan boards.

The Cleveland Press critic, said of Fidler: "This powerful actor is not only authoritative but has an unending sensitivity which shows up in his controlled approach to Macbeth's more emotional moments. I found no performance more substantial than his at the festival in Stratford, Ontario. His performance is superb."

In the Cleveland production, Emory Battis plays Duncan (he was not in the McClellan "Macbeth") and Marie Sletten represents his Princess-in-exile of Banquo.

In addition to "Macbeth," Mr. Fidler will present to his Cleveland audiences the

"A Marriage Proposal" and "The School for Wives" and "The Rivals" Clevelanders will also see the "Coriolanus" that Mr. Lathrop will bring to New York in the fall.

DANCER TO TEACH
Ready for Summer Ballet?
All ages, ranges, sizes and levels of ability are invited to study ballet this summer with the Princeton Ballet Society.

Lila Bruner, former soloist with Balanchine's New York City Ballet, will be in charge of the summer dance program. She is now enrolling kindergartners, high school students, young adults and advanced dancers in preparation for opening day Monday.

Lila Bruner

Classes will be held in the Ballet Society studios. There will be two four-week sessions during July and August.

tills may be obtained from Mrs. Bruner at 924-6520 or from the studios, 921-7758.

Former soloist with the American Ballet Theatre, which she joined at the age of 17, Mrs. Bruner has also been part of the Bob Hamilton Dance Troupe, with whom she was featured on several television programs. Her most recent work has been with the New York City Ballet.

She retired from professional dancing in 1960 and is now the wife of a Princeton mathematician and mother of two children. Mrs. Bruner joined the Ballet Society last fall and shared with Audrey Kater the choreography of the Eugene O'Neill's "Not a Day in the Life" for the Regional Ballet's March program.

ITS ABSORBED
"Glee." "Typists." Two commentaries on the absurdities of modern life will be offered up to Bucks County Playhouse audiences in New York starting Monday, July 12 and continuing through July 24.

The two plays are "The Typists" and "The Tiger," both by Murray Schagall, author of "Law" in "The Typists." Mr. Schagall comments deeply and compassionately on modern life, while in "The Typists" he allows himself several explosions of spontaneous wit at the expense of various contemporary clichés.

As Walter Kerr said of the true play, "they possess a set of jaws capable of taking a fresh bite out of a fresh head . . . in the course of an apparently easy improvisation, two events take place you begin laughing and light dauns."

Before "Typists" and "Tiger," however, the Bucks County theatre will continue to present "A Thurbur Carnival" with Eddie Bracken, Dody Goodman and that football player, Timmy Brown. The Thurbur romp will open through July 10, with its scenes from Walter Mitty, the Unicorn, Mr. Peabody and Grand Drunking at Apollotomox. Final performance: July 10.

"INHERIT THE WIND" NEXT

At Theatre in the Park, "Inherit the Wind," a drama which first opened on Broadway a decade ago is the next production scheduled by the Princeton Theatre in the Park. Following the successful run of "Guys and Dolls," the play will run next Wednesday through Tuesday, July 13 in Cadwalloze Park.

The drama is based on the famous Scopes "Monkey" Trial, which determined whether or not the theory of evolution might be taught in Tennessee's public schools. Kenneth Hensel will play Henry Drummond, and Cherebelle Clark will portray Matthew Harrison Brady, the two lawyers in the play patterned after Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan.

Mr. Hensel is known for his work with Rider College.

AT NEW HOPE: Dody Goodman is co-starred with Eddie Bracken in "A Thurbur Carnival" at Bucks County Playhouse through July 10.

Theatre '59, the Lamberville Music Circus and last season's Princeton Tercentenary Theatre in the Park. Mr. Clark, drama director at South Brunswick High School, is a newcomer to Theatre in the Park. He has had a diverse background in the theatre, not only as a teacher, but also as an actor and director.

Also appearing in the play are John Kerwin and Rachel Brown, both of Theatre '59, and Joe Flynn, who has appeared on Broadway in several plays, on the Ed Sullivan Show and in numerous summer stock productions. Mr. Flynn will play the part of E. K. Hornbeck, which was based on the personality of H. L. Mencken.

Theatre in the Park is an experiment sponsored by the Department of Health, Recreation and Welfare.

and all of them can be ordered specially for you by P. L.
Marlee Supply.

On the boat side, the shop has Johnson motors for sales and repair, although the shop will repair any motor you bring in. Gray White out-boards, Sunfish sailboats, fib-reglas by Glaston or Dixie—you can start with these, but the shop has everything from an $39 aluminum Pram to a 32-foot Johnson Aquatic aluminum canoes are about $300.

If you're already got a boat,
you need accessories. You need the instrument panel with modular sections that lock together. More tachom-eter, barometer, fuel level, oil pressure, chart light, water temperature or all of 'em at once. The Aqua Meter marine company will show you the way to go home. "Outboarder" is $9.95, "Mariner" is $13.95, for motor or sail.

Tagging on behind will be somebody on Challenger or Cyprus. Garden waker, also,
and keeping everything going will be the battery you've put into the Rubenmaid battery box, the one that holds a battery from shifting and keeps it dry.

Anything we've left out? Fishing rod holders . . . boat point . . . anchors . . . paddles, and oars . . . tow harness.

GEE . . . SPRINGS.

On Our Ferrari. Well, may be it isn't exactly the Ferrari but it has the springs, but the Sting Ray does, and so does the Plymouth station wagon that carries the U.S. Mail.

We're wandering through the stock at the Nassau Hobby Shop, 142 Nassau, surrounded by steamy little boys who speak knowledgeably of the inwards of cars and wondering whether to buy the Riviera set with car, speedboat and water skier for $4 or the Grand Prix racer on its rack behind the Lindrover.

It's the Corral line, and we wonder if Lindrover's about these springs. These little cars, no bigger than a cigarette, have real springs, and they bounce
when you touch the hood gently with a finger. Smoothest ride in town.

Nassau Hobby has a newer,
fancier, faster and more gee-white race track and you may race your cars there for 60c an hour. You don't even have to buy the car at Nassau Hobby for this privilege, which shows you how generous the world can be.

Non-racers will buy a wooden ship's model for $3, although we prefer the racing slown for $30, the one that four feet long with a five-foot-high mast. You can control it by radio, if you wish, or use an electric motor to run it, or just plain sail it with the wind.
Other racing sloops are only $2.50.

For summertime dalliance, Nassau Hobby has the "Broom-co" line from 25 cents to 69 cents, a collection of marble bracelets to "try" totem poles to make, mosaic tile and a knick-knack or a 1 ft. Indian Gulder line these things, and there's even a needlepoint cushion for squaws to make.

Later in the summer, several will move to the Hobby Shop in full force, as new things arrive, but there's quite a bit already, including a butterfly instruction book (for collecting), a book on how to distinguish various things, and a real sheep's eye to practice on.

We like the back room where all the balsa wood is kept blocks, dozens, sheathing. It's fun to make your own from scratch, whatever it is.

reaction and Welfare of Trenton. Free tickets on a first-come, first-served basis are available to the public by writing to Box Z, Trenton.

This summer, however, a package system has been introduced to help make the theatre self-supporting. A $3 contribution will give the donor one reserved seat for each play, immediate entry into the theatre after 8, and an extra guest ticket for the children's show, "Pinocchio." Inquiries about patronage tickets should also be directed to Box Z.

Lie R. Yonn, assistant producer of the Princeton Players, will be "Pinocchio" July 21-27 and "The King and I" August 11-17. "The King and I" will close out the season, running from August 25-31.

"PLAIN AND FANCY"
At Washington Crossing. Next in the pleasant outdoor amphitheatre at Washington Crossing, New Jersey, will be the Pennington Players' production of "Plain and Fancy," the one about the Amish and their quaint ways and young New York girls and their quaint ways.

The musical will play Friday and Saturday, July 9 and 10, all at 8:30. Tickets are $150 at the gate, with children under 12 admitted free if they come with an adult.

Alfred Cuthbert will star as the girl from New York who finds that life in an Amish village is different from life in Greenwich Village. Lydia Abbott, Vi Ponisi and Debbie Truxa portray Amish women of various kinds and temperaments. Debbie Truxa sings the comic ballad "Young and Pansish" and Slim Ponisi has that comedy number, "I'll Show Him."

Slum? You Can Help

Volunteers who can paint, hammer a nail or just carry a piece of lumber are being sought by Cranbury Housing Associates to rebuild slums in the Cranbury area. CHA, a non-profit corporation founded in 1963 with $2,000 in stock subscription, buys materials at cost and signs up volunteer labor to do the work. When unit, unheated shacks have been transformed by the installation of heat, light, plumbing and insulation, CHA rents the refurbished homes to their former occupants, frequently at lower rates than the tenants were paying for bare shacks.

Volunteers who would like to pledge a day of work to CHA may obtain forms at Gallery 100, 100 Nassau Street. Additional information may be obtained from the Gallery at 924-0707.

ORDINANCE INTRODUCED

To Limit Junk Car Storage.

The West Windsor Township Committee has passed on first reading an ordinance which would limit the storage time of abandoned junk cars on private and public property. It is scheduled for a public hearing at the Committee's next meeting, July 12.

The ordinance would restrict the storage of junked vehicles on private property to 30 days and on public land to 48 hours. Violators could be fined $200 and receive a 90-day jail sentence.

The Committee commented, in presenting the ordinance, that abandoned vehicles were a safety hazard to children, a breeding ground for rodents and a general public nuisance.

OUT-GROWN SHOP CLOSES

For the Summer, The Outgrown Shop, 221 Witherspoon Street, run by the Princeton Day School, has ended a successful season and will reopen in mid-September. The Shop has contributed $12,000 to the school's Scholarship Fund.

This year, the shop broke all previous records for volume of sales. It is staffed completely by volunteers with some 50 women contributing at least two hours a week. There were approximately 1500 donors who brought in good used clothing for resale.

YMCA TO CONTINUE AID

To Depressed Areas. The World Fellowship Committee of the YMCA has announced that it plans to continue its program throughout the summer months. This includes the Thursday evening work with Y members in 75 countries to foster better understanding among people.

WILL YOU BE 1 OF 80?

To Give Summer to a Child. Under the slogan, "Give Summer to a Child," the Fresh Air Fund Friendly Town program in this area has announced a goal of trying to place 80 underprivileged children here for a summer vacation. Last year, 52 children were entertained here in 42 homes.

The committee for this summer, under the sponsorship of the Princeton Jaycees, includes Robert Craig and Edward Edenfield of Princeton and chairman Albert Waxman of Trenton. The first children will arrive July 8.

Families wishing to extend invitations to a boy or girl (or both) should call Mr. Waxman at 882-0888. Children sent are between 5 and 12, they may be invited by hosts until they are 16.

The children come from all races and creeds. Although the host may specify race or religion, the Fresh Air Fund urges such restrictions be held to a minimum. The areas of greatest need are New York City among Puerto Rican and Negro children and for little boys rather than little girls.

While physically healthy, the children are victims of low income and overcrowding. Many come from broken homes. Even a brief vacation from the streets is out of the reach of their families.

The cost of transportation, escorts and insurance. Hosts are asked to provide food, a bed, affection and hospitality.

EVENING PROGRAMS SET

At Playgrounds for Teen-agers. A summer evening program for teenagers under the direction of Larry Ivan is once again being sponsored by the Joint Recreation Commission and Playground Committee. It will start Wednesday and be held three nights a week through August 27.

Activities will be offered at three locations: Harrison Street Park, Wednesday from 6:30 to 8; Community Park, Thursday from 7 to 9:30; and the High School, Fridays from 7 to 9:30. Among the activities are basketball, baseball, touch football, stickball, horseshoes, ping pong, chess, checkers, and javelin throwing.

BARNARD CLUB FORMED

For Mercer County. Officers and executive committee members have been chosen for the new Barnard Club of Mercer County, formally organized last week. Barnard has been the only one of the "seven sister" colleges not represented by a club in the central New Jersey area.

Mrs. Bernard Gerb will serve as the first president. Mrs. Richard Magee vice president; Mrs. Leonard Groom as secretary and Mrs. Irvin Vine as treasurer.

Executive Committee members will be Mesdames Harold Loew, Raymond Miller, Stanford Wexler, Barton Kramer and Richard Priest. In addition, the club has named five Honorary Directors. They are Mesdames Edward Earle, N. S. Skill, George Freun, Jess Epstein and Herbert McNaney. Charter members are Mesdames M. David Alkin, Robert Cook, Carl E. Fogelin, H. Harish-Chandra, Bruno Harris, Walter C. King II, Paul M. Koppel, John Kramer, Robert S. Kulka, Stephen Liechtenbaum, R. W. Lester, T. D. Robinson, James Wachtel, James Wei and Miss Edith Hardwick.

CLASSES OFFERED

By Art Association. The Princeton Art Association will offer two classes during the summer, which will be open to both members and non-members. The size of studio space at the Association's new location, 14 Nassau Street, will be available on a rental basis during days when classes are not in session.

Miss Jeanne Duff of the art staff at Princeton Country Day Schools will teach three three-hour classes, beginning at her home. A kiln and tools will be provided but each student must buy his own supplies, which will be available at the studio.

Starting July 6, there will be six classes, meeting Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 12:30. Classes are for persons 12 through adult. There will be three fee ranges: members, non-members and association junior members. (See advertisement, page 26.)

Bill Monaghan will instruct teenage and college students from no paint and straw techniques. He will teach oils and water colors Monday and Wednesday afternoons from July 5

The "D" stands for Diesel... and for distance

It may be hard to believe that a car with the elegance and craftsmanship of the 190 D could be so remarkably economical. But it's a fact. A very definite fact.

A 7,000 mile fuel consumption test by one of the country's leading petroleum marketers proved the 190 D travels more than 30 miles per gallon. And Diesel fuel, available practically anywhere, costs about 40% less than gasoline.

Come on in and we'll give you more proof why the Mercedes-Benz 190 D is the world's most economical full-size car.

Starting Tuesday and continuing throughout August, summer hours will be Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 10 to 12 noon. During the summer, the library will continue to be housed in the Jayvee trailer on Main Street near Craven Lane.

The library will be closed this Saturday and Monday. A story line will be present every Tuesday (except July 6 and 13, and on rainy days).

PLAYGROUNDS OPEN

In Lawrence Township, the playgrounds are open from 9:30 to 4 Monday through Friday, starting this week. The Township's seven playgrounds are located at Eldridge Park, Lawrence Junior High, Lawrenceville public school, Slackwood Park, Lawrence Township School, Ben Franklin School and Eggers Crossing.

The usual playground activities of football, basketball, volleyball, badminton, croquet, quoits, ping pong, checkers and kite flying will be available, as well as a full program in arts and crafts.

Tennis instruction will be given by Edmund Pokay at the Rider College and Lawrenceville School courts. Registration will be Monday from 10:30 to 11:30 at the Rider College for boys and girls and from 7:30 to 8:30 for adults with Mike Radice, assistant playground director, will direct. Fee: Wee and Junior baseball leagues. Tryouts will be held June 29 and 30 at the Little League Field.

In all, almost 20 special activities have been listed throughout the summer by playground director Joseph Jorgoli. A complete schedule of events, including the times for the baseball tryouts, may be obtained from him.

Mothers, On Guard!

Summer reading lists for Township scholars have been sent home so that good books can enrich the lives of the little readers until school starts again in September.

There is one catch: do the reading lists ever reach their destination? "The older the child, the less chance the reading list will ever get home," said Township superintendent John J. McKenna gloomily to the school board at its last meeting.

Should a list indeed get lost in a gutter somewhere between Valley Road and home, there are copies available at the library and in the public library.

HOURLY RATE INCREASED

By Homemakers Service. The board of directors of the Homemakers Service has voted to increase the hourly charge for summer service from $1.40 to $1.50 an hour, effective July 1.

A ten-cent minimum increase was necessary due to higher operating expenses. The $1.50 per day service charge remains the same.

The Homemakers Service also has announced that the Kiwanis Club has presented Mrs. Elizabeth Craig, executive director of the Service, with a $300 check. Through this donation, the Kiwanis Club provides financial assistance to those families who cannot afford the service of a homemaker.

BOYCHOIR CAMP TO OPEN

AQUAMANICS FEATURED

At Pine Brae, July 4. The Pine Brae Club will feature Dick Steadman's Aquamanics as part of its fourth of July celebration. There will also be a full program of swimming and diving competition for children.

To Use Adjacent Property. Seeking increased display space and a larger sales counter and prescription department. The Thorne Pharmacy, 168 Nassau Street, planning to knock out a wall and take over the vacant store space next door at 170 Nassau. The expansion will add approximately 1600 square feet to the drugstore.

The work will begin in about two weeks, as soon as a building permit is obtained and the steel arrives. E. Everett Campbell of Thorne's said he hopes the store will be kept almost open throughout the construction, but that it may have to close over a weekend. He pointed out that the prescription department probably will have to close for a day, but that all orders could be handled from Thorne's other store in Princeton Junction.

The addition will solve the problem of cramped display counters which has been a source of concern at Thorne's for some time. Mr. Campbell commented that a number of items now stored in a back room should be out on the shelves.

If G. Heughton & Sons will handle the general construction, which should take about six weeks to complete. The additional space will be completely redone inside, and a new semi-circular sales counter and prescription department will be built.

More Office Space?

Not for a while. A. C. Reeves Hicks said this week that rumors about an instant office building on the Andy's Dinner site, purchased by his law firm, are not quite accurate.

The firm of McCarthy, Barish, Hicks, Tarns and Dix, now in residence at 6 Charlton Street, has the idea of constructing an office building that would give the lawyers more space and provide for other tenants as well.

However, plans for such a structure may be as far away as five years. Mr. Hicks said, and tenants have been told that certainly nothing will be done for a year or more. Besides Andy's diner site, the blue includes Betty's Namau Beauty Lounge; Josef A. Borg, "Sailor" Classic Clothes; Nassau Shoe Repair (in the rear) and apartment tenements upstairs.

"TIME MONITOR"
Applied Logics Latest. A time keeping device which keeps a continuous log of computer operations is being marketed by Applied Logics Inc. in Princeton, 1 Palmer Square. The unit assumes two essential record-keeping functions that up to now ordinarily have been handled by human beings.

Known as the "Time Monitor," it maintains at low cost a permanent running record on tape or punched cards of projects for which a computer is used, including the time required for each project, the operator, and the date. In addition, it serves as a "watch dog" limiting use of unapproved computers to authorized personnel, thereby permitting 24-hour operation on an open shop basis.

The unit is being used in industrial, university and government computer installations. Through the installation of supplementary slave units, each model can monitor and supervise as many as 10 computers.

TWO NEWCOMERS ADDED TO PHS Football Schedule. Princeton High School will direct two new teams on the gridiron this fall. The 1965 football schedule released by Director of Athletics Joseph Jengeli shows that Bridge-water-Raritan and Woodbury have replaced Hunterdon Central and Somerville. Otherwise, it is the same as last year's.

In playing nine games last year for the first time, the Little Tigers lost four of their last five to post a 3-5 record. If anything, the addition of Bridgewater and Woodbury will mean an even tougher schedule.

Coach Dick Wood's squad will open at home September 9 against Hamilton. It follows contest with Thomas Jefferson will also be at home thereafter. The Blue and White will be on the road for five of its remaining seven. The opener will start at 11 a.m.

The complete schedule: Sept. 25, Hamilton; Oct. 2, Jefferson; 9, Ewing; 10, Trenton; away; 23, Bridge-water-Raritan; 30, Woodbury; away; Nov. 6, Stenert; 13, Notre Dame; away; 20, Madison; away.

Hun Lisle Change. The Hun School will meet the same eight opponents as last year with one exception: Admiral Farragut replaces Delbarton Pennington. Hun's traditional opening game rival has been moved from first to last place on the list.

The schedule: Oct. 2, Admiral Farragut; 9, Pecklomen; away; 16, Germantown; 23, Solebury; away; 29, Friends Central; away; Nov. 6, Pingry; 13, George School; 20, Pennington; away.

Person to Person

An article on Archery 10 years ago pointed out that actual history can deal only with about 5,000 years; for earlier information we must depend upon things which they unearth in their diggings. Archaeology is only at a beginning with the outlines of prehistoric human life gradually emerging, but much is still to be learned. We know that one of the earliest surplus tools was the needle and "thread," then came skin clothing, bone tools, the harpoon, spears, etc. While these tools were evolving, primitive man was to have disappeared and was replaced by men of bone structure similar to our own. It is an extensive, complex topic which can be properly dealt with only by the professors, but we thought even these few facts most interesting. Perhaps of more immediate interest are the terrific buys we have for you here (right now) Kammer Buick-Pontiac Co. Route 206, ap. Princeton Airport, 921-2300.

A Card to a Card

Jack Singer, captain of the 1965 Princeton University baseball team which compiled a 24-2 record under his leadership, has been contracted by the St. Louis Cardinals. He reportedly received a $5,000 bonus.

A starter at end on the Tigers' unbeaten football team last fall, Singer has considerable athletic ability. He was a three-year letterman on the baseball team, could double as a catcher, and finished the season with a .259 batting average.

The Cardinals have assigned Singer to Raleigh, their farm club in the Carolina League. It is a Class A operation.

division, and RCA 1 and Accelerator remained in a tie for the lead, in action last week in the Business Softball League. Engineering Research Center continued to roll along in undisputed possession of first place in the eastern division.

In the battle for a share of first place, Accelerator whipped Cyanamid, 11 to 4. Jack Barlow out-pitched John Anderson for the win, giving up seven hits. Don Glorier and Ed Gorski collected four of Accelerator's 11 hits, and Don Walinski picked up three hits for the losers.

RCA 1 kept pace with Accelerator with just nipping Columbia Carbon, 10 to 8, on Wally Reivert's two-out hit in the last inning scoring John Mayer. Reichert entered the game in relief of Bob Nielsen and pitched three-hit ball over the first four innings to gain credit for the win. Art Hahn went 3 for 4 for RCA, and Shane Thorne and Ron Gairolino both had three hits in three trips for Columbia Carbon.

Knocking around and a little trouble knocking off Opinion Research, 16 to 2. Cecil Oetzel and Ross Gairolino had a home run apiece, and Jeff Galt and Don Musicki both hit triples. Musicki bested Jerry Uhl for the win.

Dick Schoenke's last inning sacrifice fly scored Pat O'Donnell. Oetzel to give Educational Testing a hard-fought 6 to 3 victory over RCA 2 in the first of two games behind ERC.

ETS pitcher Jack Dilworth held 12 batters in the first two innings as RCA jumped off to an early four-run lead, but the left fielder for RCA made several fine catches, while accounting for 10 putouts.

In other action, RCA Astro behind the two-hit pitching of Ben Matysak, knocked off McGraw-Hill Office, 7 to 1. Zeig Burkhardt and George Hill pitched for McGraw-Hill giving up eight hits between them. The final game saw McGraw-Hill Warehouse win, 7 to 0, by default, as Hopewell TV failed to show.

NEW LEAGUE FORMED

In Lacrosse, The Princeton Recreation Commission will sponsor a lacrosse league this summer for high school and college boys. Hawley Waterman, athletic director and lacrosse coach at the Hun School, will be the league director.

Beginning July 7, through August 11, games will be played every Thursday evening on the field behind Township.

FOR A NICE YOUNG FAMILY
this is a sweet, teen-aged (just) house in almost "newborn" condition. Having gotten that we literally can't hold on, we'll move out to straight facts. It's that the frame Cape Cod house contains living room with fireplace, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms, and bath, den or third bedroom downstairs, plus two rooms and bath
up. However, there is considerably more appeal in the house than the mere facts indicate. The dining room, for instance, has a sitting and dress area, used not only in sitting down but around the corner to give a view of the rear garden. In the living room is a small alcove, which might be used for reading, music or whatever, yes, and serves to break up the regularity of a rectangle room rather charmingly.

The grounds (3/4 acre) are thoroughly designed. The foundation planting is most handsome; a sunny lawn area leads to a natural, windy, shaded area; there is a vertical forest of dogwood as well as specimen and shade trees —
all is enhanced by post and rail fencing on three sides. What's more, the location — a tiny, precious Township street — is fine; and the price is reduced to $30,500.
Sincerely yours,

Special Announcement!

BIG CHANGES are in store for

The Thorne Pharmacy

We are going to remove the wall which separates us from 170 Nassau. Before Labor Day, there will be a new ceiling, new lights, new air-conditioning, new flooring, new sales fixtures, new prescription department and SPACE to move around in.

You will still see the same familiar faces and you will still receive the same courteous attention — but you will be safe in wearing your new shoes when you come uptown — no one will step on your toes and you won't be tripping over cartons in the aisles.

When the dust has settled, we think you will find the NEW *Thorne Pharmacy bright, cheery and inviting.
